Our Discontinued Story.

A N AIR of Christmas expectancy pervaded the humble home of Zephaniah Chigger in Turbuckle, Ill. "Oh I wonder what brother Willie will send us from down in Albuquerk," the children were ecstatically repeating.

Zephaniah went to the postoffice early. In fact he was there ten minutes before the postoffice opened, blowing into his frosty mittens.

"Anything" for Z. Chiggers from my son down in Albuquerk?" asked Zephaniah, tense with happy anticipation of a package crumpled full of joy from the far southwest. "What's it located?" asked the P. M.

"New Mexico," said Zeph. "Is he in the rebel or fed'd army?" asked the P. M.

Zeph patiently explained it was New Mexico, U. S.

Finally the P. M. found a Thing addressed Z. Chiggers. He brought it to the window. It resembled something like a cross between a woodpile and a junkpile and a mattress that has gone through a shitterock.

Zeph's face fell. A sympathetic bystander picked it up for him.

Zeph, in sad amazement, had to trundle it home in a wheelbarrow. At that, he spilled half of the debris along the way.

The children with their happy faces, followed by their beaming mother, came out on the porch to greet him.

P. S.—Willie, down in Albuquerk, neglected to do his Christmas Shopping during Parcel Post Week, and his little offering got caught in the jam.

(The End.)

He was hurried to the Powell drug store where temporary aid was given and later the artery tied and the wound dressed by Dr. W. T. Murphy. While weakened by loss of blood he will suffer no permanent injury.

ORDER RESTORED
ON MOUNTAIN
DIVISION

Santa Fe Schedule Quickly
Untangled After Blockade of Snow in Colorado Is Broken.

With a celerity speaking perfect organization the Santa Fe operating department today has succeeded in bringing order out of chaos and has practically straightened out the badly scrambled passenger train schedule resulting from the big snow blockade between La Junta and Trinidad on the mountain division.

All last night passenger trains held at La Junta while the track was being cleared were rolling into Albuquerque, the last of the trains reaching here at 6 o'clock this morning, followed by yesterday's regular train from the east which was tied up behind a derailment on the river division.

Today's trains from all directions are running on the new schedule, which took effect last Sunday, being practically on time, and the first big slice of grief for the present winter is thought to be over.

Passengers and train crews arriving on the delayed trains from the east tell stories of the snowfall and the blockade which indicates that the reports received here were not exaggerated. At six time half a dozen of the giant mountain engines used on flatland mountain were either detailed or stuck on the mountain and it looked for a time as if the whole of the mountain division equipment would be tied up.

The passengers say that they were accorded every courtesy by the railway men and everything possible was done for their comfort during the enforced delay.

This morning's train for El Paso was held in Albuquerque until noon for connection with the delayed train from the east, leaving at 12 o'clock. Today's California limited arrived at 2 o'clock, all other trains being on time.

"THE ROSARY" AT ELKS' THEATER TONIGHT

Telling a story through which runs a virile religious sentiment that is heart-touching, and yet is not of the nature to bring offense. "The Rosary," the play of Edward F. Rose's which proved a big success last season, is repeating this year with added brilliancy. While the central figure is that of a Catholic priest, the character is so drawn that the question of sectarianism is not in any way involved. Rev. Fr. Kelly is presented as a man of God, whose greatest thought is the good he can do for his fellowman of whatever creed or of no creed, and Mr. C. A. Sterling who fills the character, seems to have caught the author's inspiration in his conception of the role as the audience at the Elks' theater will see when the production is presented tonight. He plays a keen Irish sense of humor and good will as a foil to his priestly calling, and thus is able to solve the depths of a domestic tragedy and restore happiness to a home that is near destruction through the machinations of a designing villain who seeks revenge because another has won the woman he loves. He wondrously brings the loving wife into disrepute, after ruining her sister and also plots the wrecking of the fortunes of his successful rival, who believes him a steadfast friend. It is the office of the priest to unravel the tangle and restore tranquility, perfecting a moral that should be witnessed by everybody, as well as enjoyed. The cast chosen for the presentation is a capable one without exception, and the scenic equipment of the production is beautiful as well as effective. The staging of the show is a credit to Ed W. Rowland, Jr., who has six companies playing the same play this season.

Wm. A. Hauser, formerly of J. Korber & Co., announces that he has opened a shop for harness work, auto and carriage repairing. Complete line of horse goods. Work guaranteed. Moderate prices. 112 West Copper.
